

ANDERSEN[™]
WINDOWS & DOORS

2022 TRENDS LOOK BOOK

As we look forward to the design trends that will inspire home building and renovation in 2022, one thing is abundantly clear: We've never expected more from our homes. Beauty, comfort and functionality are non-negotiable, and livable space isn't necessarily defined by four walls. See what we mean by exploring the 6 trends we think will be the most influential. We hope these ideas provide inspiration as you adapt them to your personal style.

Design Trend No.1

NATURAL WOOD: THE NEW NEUTRAL

The Trend:

Bare wood's color and texture creates a clean, warm look that works both inside and out.

Where Are We Seeing It?

In large-scale applications – think doors, floors and walls (interiors and exteriors). And in small touches – window frames aren't hiding under white paint, and exposed ceiling beams are weathered and raw looking.

Why We Love It:

It's as versatile as white paint, but its natural warmth and texture set it apart, giving our homes a cozy feeling.

Top left:
 Credit: Michelle Adams
 Products: Custom residential entry door

Top right:
 Credit: @legacybuilders.nfl
 Products: 400 Series picture window

Opposite page:
 Credit: Rashida Banks
 Products: Custom residential entry door

“Keeping my design vision of ‘modern classic’, focusing on timeless finishes while adding character, my oak door stands out as a bold focal point that adds the right amount of drama, warmth and light to my kitchen.”

– Rashida Banks

Design Trend No.2

SOLID STONE: TIMELESS CHARM

The Trend:

Earthy, enduring stone is adding old world charm to newly built and renovated homes.

Where Are We Seeing It?

On the exterior, stone chimneys and foundations are becoming increasingly popular in shades of tan and taupe. While indoors, European farmhouse-inspired remodels are utilizing stone on floors, fireplaces, accent walls and backsplashes.

Why We Love It:

Its rustic and refined charm might be on trend, but it's certainly not a fad – stone will never grow old.

Top left and right:
Credit: @aurorabywraye
Products: 100 Series windows

Opposite page:
Credit: @mchomesky
Products: E-Series 4-panel
gliding patio doors

This page and opposite:
Credit: @petitemodernlife
Products: 100 Series windows

Design Trend No.3

ARCHED & CIRCLE WINDOWS: DELIGHTFULLY UNEXPECTED

The Trend:

Distinctive and versatile circle and arched windows are giving our homes extra character.

Where Are We Seeing It?

Anywhere a window is needed, and in any style of home. Arched and circular windows are giving us an extra element to work with as we layer organic shapes and textures into our homes. Arches are elegantly replacing picture windows, while smaller circle windows are bringing light into bathrooms and entryways without sacrificing privacy.

Why We Love It:

They're different. The intentional way they frame the light makes it feel like you've invited the sun into your home.

Top this page:
Credit: @gravitate.interior.design
Products: E-Series windows

Opposite page:
Credit: @christinacruzinteriors
Products: 100 Series windows

“A curved window in a room adds a dramatic feeling of height and a custom element of design to any space.”

–The Fox Group

Top this page:
Credit: @Melby_Design
Products: E-Series windows

Opposite page:
Credit: @EmilyJackson Project
Architectural Firm: @The_Fox_Group_
Products: E-Series windows and patio doors

Design Trend No.4

FLOOR-TO-CEILING WINDOWS: EMPHASIZE THE OUTDOORS

The Trend:

Windows whose frames begin at our feet and extend far above eye level are no longer just reserved for two-story rooms with sweeping views.

Where Are We Seeing It?

In homes of all styles, floor-to-ceiling windows are brightening up unexpected spaces, particularly smaller and more private rooms. Their exaggerated size emphasizes the view and expands the feeling of a room.

Why We Love It:

Airy spaces that immerse us in the natural world bring more joy to everyday living – you may be folding laundry but you're looking at the garden while you do it.

Top left:
Credit: @Mightyrightyhome
Products: 100 Series windows

Top right:
Credit: Hilton Carter
Products: E-Series window

Opposite page:
Credit: @SarahMDorseyDesigns
Products: 400 Series windows

Credit: Albarran Architects
Products: Heritage® sliding door and windows

Credit: Jordan Vasbinder, True Craft Residential
Products: Heritage hinged patio door and fixed frame picture windows

Credit: Carl M. Hansen Companies
Products: 400 Series casement and transom windows

Design Trend No.5

WINDOW WALLS: EXPAND SQUARE FOOTAGE

The Trend:

Movable glass walls and folding doors are being used to carve out new spaces melding indoors and outdoors.

Where Are We Seeing It?

In all climates, big doors, gliding doors, pass-through windows and other solutions are improving flow and breaking down the barrier between kitchen and deck or living room and pool. These solutions are being implemented at all scales—from 60-foot moving walls to 6-foot pass-through windows.

Why We Love It:

Seamless connections between indoors and outdoors make use of every bit of livable space and keep us close to the nature that exists in our own backyards.

This page:
Credit: Swan Architecture
Products: MultiGlide™ pass-through window

Opposite page, top and bottom:
Credit: Feldman Architecture
Products: Aluminum wood curved-corner
Liftslide door with flush drainage track, and pivot door

A sunroom with large windows and doors, featuring indoor plants, a wooden chair, and a dining table on a deck. The room is filled with lush greenery, including a large fiddle leaf fig and a monstera. A wooden chair with a white cushion and a blue and orange patterned pillow sits in the foreground. A round, dark stone coffee table holds several potted plants. In the background, a dining table with a white tablecloth and a striped umbrella is set on a wooden deck. The view outside shows a lush green landscape with trees.

“We wanted our home to feel connected to nature whether you are inside or out, and sometimes it’s hard to tell the difference in our sunroom with expansive doors and floor to ceiling windows ...”

–Hilton Carter

Design Trend No.6

A-FRAME CABINS: THEY'RE BACK!

The Trend:

This iconic cabin design is reviving our dreams of leisure and allowing us to escape to the woods.

Where Are We Seeing It?

Lakeside, mountainside and anywhere else you'd want to unwind, new builds and renovations are coming to life as architects, builders and DIYers come up with ways of reinventing this design for the way we live today – WFC (work from cabin!).

Why We Love It:

Natural light, stunning views and proximity to nature – talk about a restorative experience.

This page, top left:
Credit: @edinburgaframe
Products: 100 Series windows

Top right:
Credit: @scandi_iframe

Opposite page:
Credit: @indexcabins
Products: 400 Series and E-Series windows and doors

This page:
Credit: @aframing
Products: E-Series windows and doors

We love watching home projects unfold.
Share yours on Instagram
#AndersenWindows

LOVE THE LIFE YOU SEE.™

Learn more at andersenwindows.com/ideas-and-inspiration/blog/